- Sitting on examination and entrance audition panels as required
- Potential to coach chamber music groups and lead performance and faculty classes
- Take an active role in keeping the syllabus relevant to current trends in the music profession

These include:

Nature & Scope of Role

The French Horn is taught at undergraduate and postgraduate level mainly for principal study students, though with the possibility as a second study option and masters.

Students may choose to have chamber music coaching from any RCM professor.

It is recognised that many teachers will have busy professional careers. There is no guarantee of hours, nor is there a minimum expectation. The maximum number of hours of teaching available with this post can be negotiated to fit in with other commitments, although there is a requirement to teach at the Royal College of Music in Prince Consort Road and an expectation that any professor appointed would wish to build their class here. There is no set minimum number of hours and initially professors may have only a few students. Professors are expected to manage their class size to be able to prioritise their students and their development.

All professors are regarded as partners, and a willingness to engage with colleagues within the College is strongly desirable. There are numerous other opportunities for professors to engage in chamber music coaching, performance activity or research.

About Us

|--------------------|--|
| The College | Opened in 1883 by the then Prince of Wales, the Royal College of Music (RCM) is a world-leading music conservatoire with a prestigious history and contemporary outlook. The RCM is a vibrant community of talented and open-minded musicians, with over 900 students from more than 60 countries studying at undergraduate, masters or doctoral level in the Senior College throughout the week and 300 students on a Saturday in the Junior Department. Former students of the RCM hold key roles in music and the arts in all parts of the world - as performers, teachers, composers, conductors and animateurs. The RCM was ranked as the global top institution for both Music and Performing Arts in the 2024 QS World University Rankings by Subject. |
| Staff | The RCM has over 250 members of professorial (teaching) staff and over 100 teachers in the Junior Department - the majority of whom are busy professionals with worldwide reputations, who include teaching among the various musical activities that they regularly undertake. Their work, and the work of the College as a whole, is supported by a team of over one hundred administrative staff. |
| Location | The RCM benefits from its particular location in South Kensington - one of the most attractive and interesting parts of central London. The area is well-served by public transport: South Kensington tube station is within ten minutes' walk; several bus routes pass the Royal Albert Hall. Kensington Gardens and the renowned museums of Exhibition Road, the Natural History Museum, the Victoria |

& Albert Museum and the Science Museum, are only a short walk away; Imperial College of Science, Technology & Medicine is next door; the Royal College of Art and the Royal Albert Hall are just across the road. The area, known originally as Albertopolis, emerged as a location for national institutions in the arts and sciences after the Great Exhibition of 1851 largely because of the enthusiasm of Prince Albert. Relationships with neighbouring institutions are friendly and supportive.
